Degree Value and Duration

3 year European Degree: 180 ECTS (72 US)

4 year American Degree: 240 ECTS (96 US)

What a typical course is like

The structure of a typical course will require students to read materials supplied by the university, study related materials, do some personal research on the topic (focusing on areas of personal interest).

For each topic covered, the student will prepare an assignment, which will normally consist of applying the skills in a given situation. For example, in a change management course, an assignment question could be:

Your company has merged with another one, you are the manager of a sales team and you face lack of motivation issues due to the change.

What can you do?

In some courses, students will be required to prepare projects where they can apply their newly acquired skills in a more complete way.
